

CLAIMS

I CLAIM:

1. A unique foot operated device for playing a tambourine, consisting of:
2. A foot pedal pivotally situated to the tambourine that is coupled to the side of the tambourine base that is generally perpendicular to the tambourine casing.
3. The foot operated device of Claim 1, wherein the foot pedal has a resiliently stable pad extending downwardly there from, said pedal pad being extended above the ground surface.
4. The foot operated device of Claim 1, is suspended from the ground surface via the adjustable foot strap that is movable from left or right foot.
5. The foot operated device of Claim 1, is attached to the tambourine playing device by a 3/8" nut to lock that is adjustable to the user's pressure requirements.
6. A foot operated musical instrument, comprising:
 - Adjustable Strap
 - Accompanying hardware
 - A tambourine coupled to the lower surface of the foot strap.
 - A foot pedal coupled with the adjustable strap on a hinge pin on 90 degree angle to put in slot and lock in.